TonenGeneral Sekiyu K.K. Kawasaki Refinery and Research Center
Participate in Integrated Studies Program

TonenGeneral Sekiyu K.K. (head office: Minato-ku, Tokyo; president: Jun Mutoh) Kawasaki Refinery (Kawasaki, Kanagawa; manager: Tomohide Miyata) held an integrated studies class for two class periods for 23 first-year to third-year students of Miyauchi Junior High School in Kawasaki on June 25.

The theme of the class was “thinking about energy and the environment”. During the class, Junichi Nishimura, manager of the Research Center located on the Kawasaki Refinery grounds, gave the students basic knowledge about oil and explained the characteristics of different types of energy. There was also a demonstration of a kerosene quality test using lab equipment.

While the students expressed amazement at the vast array of crude oil and petroleum products available, of which 50 samples were displayed in the classroom, they also gained a greater understanding of the importance of energy security and the effective use of energy in maintaining the quality of everyday life.

The TonenGeneral Group believes that as a good corporate citizen, contributing to society while continuously working to maintain safety and health, protect the environment and respond to climate change issues is an important corporate responsibility. Support for integrated studies programs at local junior high schools is one of the Group’s many social contribution activities.
